

IN THE ABSTRACT

Please amend the abstract as follows:

C1

The invention relates to a device for presenting information units. The device comprises history-~~means~~ device for storing references to presented information units into a history list. The history ~~means~~ device comprise user operably navigation ~~means~~ device for changing a current position in the history list and presenting an information unit referenced by the reference at the current position. The device further comprises compilation ~~means~~ unit for user operably compiling a set of references to desired information units, and storing the references of said ~~the~~ set into the history list so as to present an information unit referenced by the compiled set in response to a user operating said ~~the~~ navigation ~~means~~ device.